Over many years, but at a very young age, Kya, was left by her family. Without them or the help from people in the nearby town, she learns to feed and fend for herself. As Kya grows, it is the marsh that provides her shelter and the animals that teach her to survive. Unbeknownst to the town, Kya grows to become a keen naturalist. That is until Chase Andrews, a popular and wealthy town local, is discovered dead. Kya immediately is the suspected murderer.
